Elly Chapple talk	Elly Chapple - “We can talk about diversity and we can talk about inclusion, but what really we really need to talk about is how to be human” Elly will invite you to understand why we need to dive into uncomfortable conversations and reframe them as courageous conversations in education and connected spaces that we all need to have, to ensure everyone feels heard, held and valued for who they are. This session is for staff and parents. Please follow the instructions on the flyer to book a space, and please share with any parents who may need support.
